If the committee loses every code: the way back in

FoxFace holds a few emergency logins for every club. They exist for one situation: a committee that can no longer get into its own club. Every use is written on the Data tab, by the server, so you'd see it whether or not we mentioned it.

Where

Members admin → Data, under The way back in.

Nobody's account

An emergency login carries no name, and no booking, approval or minute is ever recorded against it.

What to do

1. Email hello@foxface.io
   Say which club, who you are and what happened. We'll sign in with an emergency login, issue a new code to one committee member, and sign out.

2. Check the record
   The most recent uses are listed under The way back in, with the date and time. If one appears that the club didn't ask for, tell us.

1 every use is listed here.

FoxFace Diving how-to guides, guide C15. Pictures are from Kelpline Divers, a made-up club; your club's site shows your own names and kit. Made by FoxFace. Version 2, October 2026.