Training days: saying what you want and seeing the plan

On a pool night or training day, you tell the club what you're there for when you book. Once the Training Officer has planned the session, you can see who you're with.

Where

Dive calendar, on any pool session or training day. Published plans are also under Training on the Noticeboard.

Instructors

If you teach, the same card asks whether you can teach that day: yes, maybe or no. The Training Officer plans around the answers.

What you're there for

1. Say it when you book
   Booking onto a pool night or training day asks What are you there for? Pick teaching, a fun swim, a snorkel, a try dive, just watching, or say it in your own words (guide M3).

2. Change it later
   Your answer shows on the card as You're down for this one, and you can change it without giving up your place.

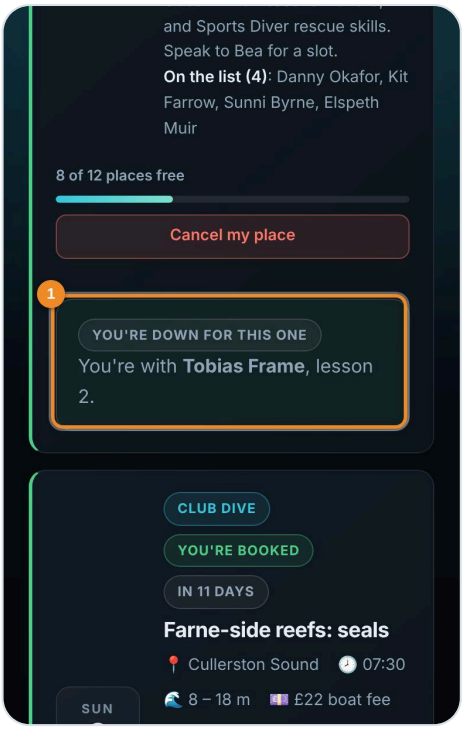

1 pick one, 2 or in your own words.

Seeing the plan

1. Once it's published
   The card says You're down for this one and who you're with, for example "You're with Tobias Frame, lesson 2". If you're running the session, it says so.

2. On the noticeboard
   The Training button on the Noticeboard lists every published day with the whole plan.

3. Before it's published
   You see nothing of a draft. Instructors see the plan as soon as it's saved, and can open it from the card.

1 who you're with, once the plan is published.

FoxFace Diving how-to guides, guide M17. Pictures are from Kelpline Divers, a made-up club; your club's site shows your own names and kit. Made by FoxFace. Version 2, October 2026.